

Fieldwork in the Pontine plain (Central Italy)

Within the ambit of the project Fora, stationes, and sanctuaries: the role of minor centers in the economy of Roman Central Italy ('Minor Centers'), field surveys will be conducted on and around the sites of Forum Appii and Ad Medias, two Roman road stations along the via Appia in the Pontine plain, ca 75 km south of Rome. Research will include intensive on-site surveys, extensive rural field surveys within a 10 km radius from these sites and pottery studies.

We are looking for (advanced) students to participate in the fieldwork and pottery studies. Participants should be available for at least 3 weeks and will be selected on the basis of their cv. Accommodation and meals are provided.

When: 24 September – 28 October 2012

For more information, please contact Gijs Tol (g.w.tol@rug.nl) or Tymon de Haas (t.c.a.de.haas@rug.nl).

